Whoa. That was nice of Johnny to throw that match in the name of love. And I know they say that love hurts, but I didn't know it was that painful. Ouch. Oh, well, you don't have to be an athlete to be a player. I don't hate him; I just hate the game.

Here are some letters from more vocal Johnny Bravo fans. We're still taking suggestions for the lettercolumn name, so please feel free to write in with suggestions or just let us know what you think.

Dear Editor:

I wish that Johnny Bravo were my son so that I could disown him. The idea of Johnny Bravo as Santa Claus (CARTOON NETWORK STARRING #6) is enough to make me swear off the holiday forever.

And the hopeless love affair with a pizza girl armed with flaming hot mozzarella and deadly aim.

And everybody knows that the most famous reindeer of all was Shemp.

My suggested pickup line is "Hey there, babydoll. How'd you like to carry my barbells through all eternity?"

Disown Johnny Bravo? Would he learn if you did that? Besides, wouldn't you have more fun just laughing at him? I know we do. Thanks for the pickup. That's the same line I used to get my wife. I guess it's true: great minds do think alike.

Dear Johnny Bravo Notes:

The Christmas issue of CARTOON NETWORK STARRING #6 starring Johnny Bravo was very humorous. It temporarily made me forget all the shopping I still had to do. I only had three more days until Christmas, and this issue gave me a much-needed break. Next year I will think about ordering DC comics as Christmas presents.

Johnny Bravo will never get any real toys. He'd better learn how to treat Santa better than hurting Saint Nicholas. His attempt to use mistletoe on a pretty girl didn't work either.

I also thought it was funny how Johnny Bravo thought the pizza delivery girl was interested in him. I hope "Domina Delivers" teaches Johnny Bravo a lesson about eating too much pizza. He's going to have to go on a diet.

I quickly read Johnny Bravo in CARTOON NETWORK STARRING #11. I thought the first story was hilarious. I wonder if Red Xonia will ever find another true love. She seemed to be deeply in love with Johnny after he bested her in battle.

Little Suzy at least got a trinket from the Red Xonia adventure. I wonder what kind of trouble Red Xonia will get into without her once sharp rotating blades of her "shvuntz."

Perhaps true love will again find Red Xonia.

Hope Little Suzy and Johnny Bravo can watch the next episode on television. Mr. Bravo had better stay awake! Another appearance by Johnny Bravo in television land could bring about the Clash of the Titans. I loved the rest of the issue and look forward to the next time Johnny shows up in CARTOON NETWORK STARRING.

It's ironic his one true love is far out of his reach. Johnny Bravo loves being a bachelor, anyway.

This issue's cover by Dave Schwartz and Jeff Albrecht.

next issue:

It's Zorak's birthday and you're not invited. But everyone else is! Plus: Who stole Space Ghost's power bands? Written by Robbie Busch & John Rozum; art by Matt Jenkins & Dan Davis; cover by C. Martin Croker.

Hey, kids, write to dcocartoon@aol.com or mail to DC Comics 1700 Broadway, New York, NY 10019.

Other DC Kids' Titles:

Dexter's Laboratory #14: It's no secret that Dexter is always the teacher's pet…but now he's the star entry in the annual Teacher's Pet Show! It's the weirdest, wildest Dexter yarn yet as he throws all his genius into winning a blue ribbon for brown-nosing! Written by Dan Slott; art by Chris Savino and Jeff Albrecht; cover by Bill Wray.

Looney Tunes #69: They always wanted to be in pictures! The Tunes tear up Hollywood as Yosemite Sam lands an agent (a lousy one), Taz terrorizes a movie set, and the Daffy tale of a hard-luck duck is acted out by…Elmer? Written by Earl Kress, Chuck Kim and Terry Collins; art by David Alvarez, John Costanza, Brian Garvey, Mike DeCarlo and Jim Amash; cover by Alvarez and DeCarlo.

Scooby-Doo #39: Shaggy enters a spooky motocross race he'll never forget and always regret in "Two Heads are Better than None," and the gang is stuck with a finger-lickin'-good ghost in a chocolate factory in "The Chocolatier Chortled." Written by John Rozum and Bob Fingerman; art by Joe Staton, Erik Doescher, Dave Hunt and Brian Garvey; cover by Joe Staton and Dave Hunt.

The Powerpuff Girls #6: Mojo Jojo tries to order a pizza and hits the jackpot instead — when he dials the Powerpuff hotline by mistake! Now the Girls are taking marching orders from their worst enemy in "Dial M for Mojo"! Written by John Rozum; art by Ricardo Garcia Fuentes and Mike DeCarlo; cover by Phil Moy.
